

I Will Survive

They will push me down, and call me names
They are mean and hurtful and will never change,
They think they have hurt me, but I prove them wrong
When they think I am weak, I show them I am strong.

I have to believe I'm strong and smart
I know they have no feelings, they have no heart
They all get together to put me down,
So they can see my smiles turn to frowns.

Even though they're pretty doesn't mean they can't do ugly things,
Just because my guardian angel hurts, it won't stop her from using her wings.

I try to be strong and I try to be nice,
But deep down inside I know they'll make me pay a price.

I'm talking about girls who think they deserve
Everything and all the air in the world

The ones who strive for the drama
The ones who purposely put me through the trauma

I just tell myself that I don't care , hopefully tomorrow they won't be there
I am faced with these people everyday at school

I can see why they do it, just to be cool
They do it because they don't know who they are

When my heart is left with a massive scar

Friendships that will never be fixed

Friends that will sadly not be missed

They will push me until I finally fall

Call me the meanest names in the hall,

God didn't make the earth that we now see

He didn't create it so they could demoralize me.

They are big enough cowards to not look me in the eye,

What gives them the right to say I should die

How long should I walk away and ignore

Just shut them out of my life, close the door

They should treat me how they want to be treated

But they can't because they're too hurtful and conceited

They look at me like I'm broken and they don't want me to be alive

Surely I will show them, "I will survive".
